It is not only admirably adapted to the purposes of the club, but it is sing and arranged with a view to the convenience of its members. Therein we found three boats, one of them a regular eight-cared racer, of Spanish cedar; one a ten-cared boat for guests, in which we made the trip to the distant State of Arkansas in "thunder, lightning and in rein." There was also a six-oared cutter, of beautiful model, built in Phil adelphia. In a few minutes after the arrival of the heavy load, which the press imposed upon the Chickasawa, the caramen, transmogrified from plain citizens to joily tars, were at their places. The signal given by the captain, we pulled out into the stream, right in the teeth of a most portentious storm, "not a man dismayed." "You know how it is yourself." Captain F. Ames Tyler was at the rudder, and at the care were J. W. Allison, the President of the club; Win. Worsham, one of the float reliable of boatmen; Sidney Cook, Fred.
